Patches

Embroidery is the process of stitching a logo, text or design onto a textile. A logo must be digitized, taking a high-resolution image and determining the number of stitches and colors required, and then applied to the garment. Embroidery is widely used in branding clothing and on uniforms to create a professional, durable and long-lasting look. A perfect option for when you want to add extra personalization such as names.

Patches are the most cost effective, and can be reused elsewhere. There are embroidered or stitched separately and then added to a garment. Since ESD products have a suggested maximum of washes they can handle, this is a great option for when you just want a logo added to apparel.
